

A funeral is a time to say goodbye and to remember the life of the person you love. It's our privilege to be at your side. We'll be on hand to help you decide exactly the right final resting place for your loved one's ashes - a place that can give comfort of course, but that can also help you reflect on the person who has died, their life, their values and beliefs, and their personality.

After the cremation the ashes will be housed in a temporary container supplied by the crematorium and, should it be your wish, we will collect the ashes from them for you and bring them back safely to our premises.

From there we can help advise you on the many options that are available to you, from interring the ashes in a traditional plot, grave or niche wall within a cemetery through to something more individual like a sea burial. We'll be on hand of course to explain the procedures. Another consideration could be interring the ashes in an existing family grave where it is often possible to have an inscription added to a memorial. We will do our very best to advise on the best place to give you and your family a focus for family visits that will help celebrate your memories as well as leaving a lasting legacy for future generations.

We can provide you with a wide range of ashes caskets and urns. Some are suitable to be kept at home, with the same range also perfectly matched for burials or alternatively you may wish to scatter the ashes in a special place for which we have a range of suitable scatter tubes for you to choose from. These can even be personalised. We also have a range of Keepsakes which are ideal for those families who choose to share the ashes of their loved one. Regardless of what you choose, we know that every funeral remembers the life of an individual and we're here to help you make it special.

YOUR OPTIONS EXPLAINED

After the cremation, you will receive your loved one's ashes in a temporary container. The ashes can be buried, interred or scattered, but for many of us, keeping a loved one at home can be comforting. Alternatively, you might want to keep a portion of the ashes, and for this, small keepsakes and jewellery mean you can always keep them close. Below is a guide to the options available to you, with accompanying icons to help you easily find a suitable product. Please note, our categories are intended as a guide. Items that can be used in more than one category (e.g. for the home and for interment & burial) will be highlighted using the icons displayed below.

FOR THE HOME & BURIAL

We have a selection of ashes caskets and decorative urns that have been specifically designed for keeping at home. These high quality items have a beautiful finish and can be displayed openly or kept in a private place. In time, the ashes can be buried, interred or scattered.

FOR THE GARDEN & HOME

Our garden pieces include urns made in stone and ceramics. The natural materials blend into the garden and often become a living feature, growing a layer of moss or lichen. We also offer living memorials; flowers and saplings which can be planted in memory of a loved one.

FOR INTERMENT & BURIAL

People often choose to bury the ashes of a loved one in a cemetery or natural burial ground. Forever Urns offer a variety of urns designed by handcraft specialists from around the world using natural materials such as plant fibre, paper, bamboo, seagrass, wood, clay and wool.
